DESCRIPTION

A rare opportunity to purchase a unique 19th century manor house and barn built at the highest point of Montcel at Auvers-sur-Oise, where the Impressionist artists found inspiration and a town that will be forever linked with Vincent Van Gogh, who lived and found his resting place here. Van Gogh is said to have painted a view of the Oise valley from this house, which, due to its elevated location, provided him with the ideal vantage point from which to be inspired by the superb panorama.
Of Italian design, carefully renovated and maintained in keeping with its initial design and construction, the house owes its charm to the nobility of the materials from which it is composed: dressed stone, solid oak parquet floors, Venetian floor tiles, fireplaces in marble and Burgundy stone, copper rainwater systems and slate fixings, all of which contribute to the supreme quality and character of the building. Beyond the automatic gate, an offroad parking area and pathway lead to a beautiful 55m2 terrace paved in non-slip stoneware, perfectly exposed to allow the enjoyment of the beautiful garden featuring a spring and a wide variety of mature plants and trees, while a lighting system prolongs the outdoor experience into the evening. The house and garden are entirely enclosed by stone walls offering security and discrete privacy without vis-à-vis.

The terrace is accessible from the house via the entrance, the kitchen and the dining room, making it a convivial and practical living spac...
