Just a few minutes from the beaches of Saint-Malo and Dinard, this remarkable 17th- and 18th-century manor house stands at the heart of an enclosed estate covering approximately 3.7 hectares. Surrounded by a wooded park, meadows and woodland, this elegant property enjoys a peaceful and idyllic setting. Entirely and carefully

DESCRIPTION

Behind its gates, the estate covers nearly 3.7 hectares comprising a wooded park, meadows, woodland and unspoilt natural areas. The property offers a rare living environment, sheltered from view yet just a few minutes' drive from the coast of Saint-Malo and all amenities.

The main manor house, built between the 17th and 18th centuries, offers approximately 484 m² of living space according to current surveys. Entirely and carefully renovated, it has retained its original architectural features whilst enjoying modern comforts.

On the ground floor, an elegant entrance gallery leads to several reception rooms featuring fireplaces, a dining room, a spacious family kitchen and a utility room. The upper floors comprise ten bedrooms with numerous bathrooms and shower rooms, offering an ideal layout for a large family home or for hosting events. The property is in an excellent state of repair.

A former private chapel, a testament to the estate's history, further enhances the property's exceptional character. This residence is notably linked to the English architect George Goldie (1828–1887), a leading figure in neo-Gothic religious architecture.

The detached cottage offers approximately 148 m² of living space, according to the building surveys. It features separate living areas suitable for accommodating family, guests or staff.

Several outbuildings complete the property and offer a wide range of potential uses: storage, workshops, garages or additional projects, depend...
