DESCRIPTION

At Théoule-sur-Mer on the Bay of Cannes, where the red rocks of the Massif de l'Estérel descend towards the Mediterranean, Propriété Guerguy occupies a position whose combination of scale, landscape and potential would be extraordinarily difficult to recreate today.

From this elevated setting, the view opens across the sea, the coastline and the wooded hills of the Estérel. These are not simply sea views: here, sea, sky and mountains combine to create an almost theatrical sense of place, with the landscape itself becoming part of the architecture.

The property comprises 8,378 m² of private land. Immediately behind it lie more than 12 hectares of adjoining non-buildable woodland, owned separately and not included in the sale. Visually, however, this natural landscape extends the sense of the estate and creates a degree of openness, separation and privacy that has become increasingly difficult to find on the Côte d'Azur.

The existing buildings are currently in a ruinous state and require complete rehabilitation. That is also what makes Guerguy fundamentally different from a finished contemporary villa: the buyer is not inheriting someone else's completed decorative choices, but a historic place whose next chapter remains open.

An approved residential project allows the property to be transformed into one exceptional private residence of approximately 1,500 m², combining the rehabilitation and transformation of around 1,200 m² of existing structure with an ext...
